Structures You Can Bring With You Anywhere

Prefabricated structures that can be installed in any habitat

The protection of equipment is important for commercial and industrial businesses when economics and practicality are concerns. Prefabricated shelter units are durable, weatherproof, climate controlled, pressurized and structurally strong.

Your structure can be multi-sectional to take advantage of the space available and where access may be limited. Dozens of options can be added to meet all appropriate requirements or to meet all safety codes. Prefabricated units have a long life and need minimal maintenance.

A contained protective shelter system answers your plant office requirements for most industrial and commercial applications. Employees can function in a business environment, free from production noise, dust, dirt, heat, cold or any other unruly distraction.

For industrial and commercial use, these durable all-steel, non-combustible storage buildings are a justified investment. Heavy duty steel components are used throughout to provide secure storage structures for tools, hardware, equipment, vehicles, boats, barrels, fuel tanks and hazardous materials.
